THEATER STYLE

An arrangement of chairs in rows or arcs that all face the same point in the room. There are no tables or desks used in this style seating. This is the most efficient set up when the attendees will act as an audience.

U-SHAPE STYLE

A series of conference tables set in the shape of the letter "U", with chairs around outside the table. This layout style is often used for Board of Directors meetings, committee meetings or discussion groups where there is a speaker, audio visual presentation or other focal points. Ideal for groups of 25 depending on room shape and size.

BANQUET STYLE

The most commonly seen seating style at formal events when meals are served. It consists of a round table with eight to ten people sitting around it.

CLASSROOM STYLE

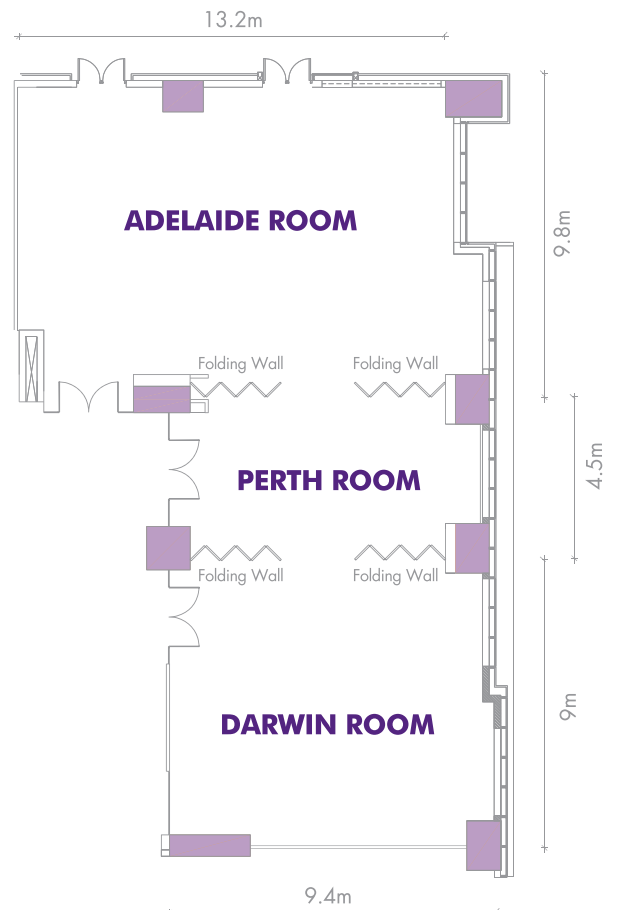

Rows of tables with 2 or 3 chairs at each one, with tables arranged to face the front of the room. Appropriate when the conference is an informational type presentation. The presenters are providing the information, with some dialogue with the audience.

BOARDROOM STYLE

This is generally one large “square” or “rectangle” that seats up to about 30 people around the edges depending on room shape and size. This style is not usually conducive to larger groups and works better with smaller, more intimate meetings.

COCKTAIL STYLE

A room set-up designed to encourage the flow of traffic so that participants can mix and mingle. High-top tables are placed throughout the room with limited or no seating provided. Any chairs are typically placed along the edges of the room.
